

Young athletes are burning out at a very young age

Many young athletes experience burnout, loss of enjoyment, and potential injury due to excessive training and early specialization, leading to a high dropout rate in organized sports.